The Peace Commission -- A Pinte Pastoral.

It was a Peace Commissioner, And his garb was sober drab; His hair was iong and white, and he Economized his gab. In abort, he was a reticent And inoficiative clab.

And nonconserve and.

His style was philanthropic,
And he bore a carpot-bag,
In which he stored his tracts and sosp.
And other peaceful swag,
Which follows parameters when war
And cattle-stoning lag.

Long they sat in solems council, The Agent and the Hed, Mildly talking sabby virtue, Till the sar hum shook his head, As with doubt and dim sweptcion— Then he granted low and said, Not with slequence of Nature,

Not in metaphoric style, but in simple frontier lingo, Mingled slang and grammer wile— 'Na-ree-trow-zis want some whisky; Isjan empty; drink a pile.'

Then that mosk and lowly Quaker Hemonstrated with a tear; Spoke of fire-water and ruln with eloquence severe— Said, quite reelingly, that whisky Was a fee most insincere.

Girowing Refinement in the West.

(From the N. Y. Times.)

The social and external changes which have taken place in the West during the past ten years gream marked and interesting leasures. The great natural advantages of that region, with the enormous energy of its "selected" population, have had their effects in a vast increase of wealth, and though this wealth is better this the world, yet finally it has begun to accumulate in certain ranks and sets, and to show the usual results of accumulation.

Taste and elegance manifest themselves.
